

TOAST or SPECIAL OCCASION SPEECH ... honouring family, a friend, employee or colleague

Why speak in public?

- a milestone celebration
 - an awards ceremony
 - a special achievement
 - acknowledgment of courage or loyalty
- just some occasions you might need to stand up and speak to a gathering.

Preparation needed

Usually, the words won't just come out of your mouth fully formed. No; you need to prepare, refine and rehearse your special toast.

It can be terrifying if you've always avoided this task, and I know just how this feels. But I also know how it feels to overcome this fear and present a speech to be proud of.

With my help, you will now be able to express your admiration for the person you're honouring.

I'll even coach you to deliver it.

Let's talk about your project
